

Nicole Provonchee

Nicole Provonchee is a certified Executive Coach and business strategist with over 20 years of management and executive-level experience across a range of industries.

She founded Bright Blue Consulting on the idea that companies, organizations, and associations are better when they have diverse ideas and perspectives at the table. With that in mind, she is passionate about helping women get out of their own way so they can become even more successful in their careers and lives.

Prior to starting Bright Blue, Nicole held executive level positions at Ascension, Parthenon Publishing and Frontline Group, capturing numerous lessons along the way about what really works for women in the workplace. Her current clients range from senior leaders at international corporations to new leaders at rapidly growing startups to leadership teams and Boards at leading non-profits.

Nicole holds both an executive coaching certification from the Center for Executive Coaching and an MBA with a concentration in strategy from the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, where she founded the school's first MBA association for women. She also serves as an Advisor at Nashville's Entrepreneur Center and a Coach and Strategist at the Center for Nonprofit Management.
